The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

SOMETHING red hot — something to watch closely for developments — is the announcement by the government of Sweden that two German mine-sweepers sank two Swedish fishing boats without warning off Denmark on Aug. 25.

An angry Stockholm immediately started an investigation. Should that inquiry establish that the Germans have again perpetrated one of their cold-blooded acts of ruthlessness, it might be the explosive event which would bring Sweden into the war on the side of the Allies.

That's not a prediction. I'm merely pointing to a tendency which has been pulling a reluctant Sweden nearer and nearer to the brink of the European maelstrom recently. This is one of those "can-be-it" situations. One wonders in particular what the effect would be on Stockholm if the western Allies should stage an invasion of western Europe in the immediate future. It certainly would put the Swedes in a much stronger position.

Relations between the Scandinavian country and her gangster neighbor have been increasingly strained for four months. For the past three months the Swedes have been standing at arms, ready for action if forced from their chosen position of neutrality.

Now comes this fresh sensation in which the German warships are said to have fired from a range of 50 yards on the little boats. The fishing craft were flying their country's flag, and had the Swedish blue and gold insignia painted trustfully on their sides. Stockholm regards this as the worst in a series of incidents involving Germany since the sinking of the Swedish submarine Ulfen on April 16, with her crew of thirty-four.

The fact that the Nazis have been jittery in the expectation of an Allied invasion of Denmark scarcely could save Swedish honor or indignation. That's an excuse something like the one the Boche gave after sending the Ulfen to the bottom. The Hitlerites said they mistook the Ulfen for an enemy craft — but they didn't make the tale stick in Stockholm.

It was last March 25 that Sir Alfred Knox, member of the British parliament, told the house of commons that "Sweden's attitude since the beginning of the war had been 'definitely pro-Axis.' Whether that represented the position exactly is something for history to decide. Perhaps it might be more accurate to say that some of Sweden's actions had been pro-Axis, thereby making way for a delicate differentiation. We should remember that Sweden was right under Hitler's big guns, and in constant danger of invasion by the Boche. Sweden's position was mighty difficult.

Anyway, the Allied governments quietly but clearly made it known that those who are not for us are against us. This didn't improve Sweden's uncomfortable position, but it did produce signs that Stockholm was giving it thoughtful consideration.

A little later there began a long series of incidents for which the Nazis were responsible, and there has been a distinct cooling of Swedish-German relations. Stockholm's attitude has stiffened as the Axis has sunk into the slough of defeat, and as the prospects of an Allied invasion of western Europe have grown.

Swedish protests to Berlin increased, and by the end of April the Swedes were talking tough to

GERMANS FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO CHECK SOVIETS

Red Army Troops Continue Ukraine Advance Despite Nazi Attacks

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, Aug. 27. — German troops have struck at the flanks of Russian forces advancing through the Ukraine in an unsuccessful effort to check the Red army's progress west of Kharkov. It was announced today.

A front line dispatch to the army newspaper Red Star said the enemy concentrated infantry and tanks along the sides of salients which the Russians had driven in to their lines and launched a number of stiff counter-attacks.

The Red army repulsed the attacks, the dispatch said and continued the reckless advance which yesterday covered another three and a half miles.

(A German communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, said Russian troops supported by tanks and planes attacked south and west of Kharkov yesterday but were repulsed with the loss of more than 100 tanks.)

In addition to yesterday's three and a half mile westward advance, which the Russians made in the Kharkov region toward the Nazi's Dnieper river defenses, Soviet forces were disclosed to have struck due south in a new flanking maneuver.

The southward column of Gen. Ivan S. Konev's Steppe army, pounding toward the key rail junction of Lozovaia, killed some 600 of the enemy, the Soviet communique said. Fighting was reported heavy.

Thus, the steppe army was moving into position to put eyes-increasing pressure against the flanks of the German lines reaching eastward into the Dnieper basin.

In the Dnieper basin itself, the Moscow war bulletin said, the southwest army group commanded by Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky attacked south of Izum and south-west of Voroshilovgrad, killing 2,000 of the enemy.

Yesterday's advances by Gen. Konev's troops west of Kharkov wiped out 800 enemy rear guards, routed two battalions and captured several villages.

The communique gave no information as to how far the Russians had penetrated the Ukraine west of Kharkov. One big goal is Poltava, 75 miles to the southwest on the railroad leading to the Dnieper, which is already 75 miles beyond. Poltava already has been bypassed to the north by one Soviet column which captured Zenkov Wednesday on a bee-line drive to west of Kiev, Ukraine capital still 170 miles distant.

The Russians announced last night that Gen. Konev, whose troops captured Kharkov Monday, was raised from colonel general to a full general. Likewise, Markian M. Popov, whose troops seized Orel and are now advancing on Bryansk, was elevated to that rank.

U.S. Bombers Attack French Air Field

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Aug. 27. — American medium bombers escorted by fighter squadrons attacked the enemy air field at Poix in northern France today in a continuation of daylight blows at Nazi concentrations across the channel. It was announced authoritatively.

The formations roared across the coast of Kent at 8 a. m. (3 a. m. EWT), flying at a great height in cloudless skies.

An air ministry communique said RAF bombers laid mines in enemy waters last night and naval aircraft damaged four enemy mine-sweepers in attacks on shipping in the English channel. All planes returned.

Last night was the third anniversary of the first big German air attack on London, but the night passed without a sign of any Nazi raiders.

The Germans now presumably had enough worries of their own, particularly in bombed and burned Berlin from which the population was reported rapidly scattering to escape future raids.

PUBLIC REVOLT IN DENMARK IS AT FEVER PITCH

Officials, Unable to Quell Rioting, Place 230 Persons Under Arrest

(By Associated Press)
STOCKHOLM, Aug. 27. — Denmark's "people's revolt" against German occupation soared to new heights today as the Danish government and Nazi authorities reached a stalemate in their discussion on how to halt the riots and sabotage.

One hundred and twenty persons were reported arrested by Danish police yesterday as they broke up, with the aid of German soldiers, a riot in the Raadhushplassen in the center of Copenhagen.

An undetermined number of persons were reported injured. It was the second successive day that large crowds demonstrated in the Raadhushplassen, while sabotage, general strikes and clashes between Danes and German soldiers continued throughout Denmark.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 27. — The Swedish foreign office announced today a protest to the German government was being drafted, shortly after a communique stated two German mine-sweepers had sunk two Swedish fishing boats without warning.

Meanwhile residents of Helsingborg in Sweden reported they had heard terrific explosions across the narrow three-mile stretch of water at Helsingor in Denmark.

Tables Report to Berlin
Dahlsen and German authorities have been conferring all week on the revolt, which started on Aug. 14. Alarmed the Nazi ambassador to Denmark, Werner Best, went to Berlin several days ago to report. It was reported that Best would return to Denmark and that Gen. Hermann Von Hanneken, commander of the German occupation army, would institute some form of military rule.

It was understood here that Danish government leaders told the Germans that the Danes would make no further concessions.

Alarmed short of manpower, the Germans are reported to be hesitating about taking over full control as they have in other occupied countries, because it would require more troops.

Eastern Motorists Dealt Double Blow

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — Hopes of the nation's motorists for more gasoline especially in the east, were dealt a double blow today.

Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies declared the military drain on the supply produced east of the Rocky mountains was increasing steadily, and offered this deduction:

"As military requirements increase, it is inevitable that there be less gasoline available for civilian consumption. It seems patent to the petroleum administration that the only means whereby those needs can be met in full is to reduce correspondingly the demand on our gasoline stocks at home."

His statement came after the Petroleum Administration for War reported that the midwest, southwest and east are overdrawing their daily civilian allotment.

MOSCOW PUTS O. K. ON ACT OF U. S., BRITAIN

DeGaulle-Giraud Committee Considered Trustees Of French Interests

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — The seal of Soviet Russia's approval was stamped today on one of the first announced diplomatic results of the Quebec conference — formal recognition of the De Gaulle-Giraud Committee of National Liberation as "trustees of French interests."

The Russians apparently went a step further than President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in welcoming the French committee into the Allied fold as the representative of millions of Frenchmen fighting for freedom.

For, the announcement from Moscow declared that the group headed by Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud would be recognized as the "representative of the state interests of the French republic and as the leader of interests of the French republic and against the Hitlerite tyranny."

The Soviet report, broadcast by the Moscow radio, said that the Russian decision of recognition had been handed to the French committee Aug. 25, or a day before the action of the British and United States governments was made public.

War-Time Recognition
Roosevelt and Churchill, however, in their joint statement issued Aug. 24 said "full reports of the decisions (at the Quebec conference) so far as they affect the war against Germany and Italy will be furnished to the Soviet government."

The United States and Great Britain accorded the committee limited war-time recognition as administrative agency in French overseas territories which acknowledge its authority, but not as a government of France or of the French empire.

In Roosevelt's statement, the following limitations were imposed:

1. The committee is expected to "function on the principle of collective responsibility of all its members for the active prosecution of the war."
2. "In view of the paramount importance of the common war effort," the relationship with the committee "must continue to be subject to the military requirements of the Allied commanders."
3. The extent to which the committee may be recognized "as the body qualified to exercise the administration and defense of French interests" must be "reserved for consideration in each case as it arises."
4. The statement "does not constitute recognition of a government of France or of the French empire by the government of the United States."

An informed diplomat interpreted these limitations as meaning that the British-American governments merely had confirmed the situation existing in North Africa for the past three months.

Four Applications Filed Here Under Maternity Setup
Salem health department officials said today that four applications had been received from wives of Salem servicemen for financial aid under the new state program providing maternity care of non-commissioned men's wives and medical care of children up to one year of age.

State Health Director R. H. Mark with announced at Columbus that applications are coming in to his office at the rate of about 100 daily. Average cost of a case, the state believes, will be from $80 to $100. The federal government has allotted Ohio an additional $20,000 to finance the state program during the rest of August, bringing the total allotment to $40,000 for the month.

Miss Catherine Denning of Columbus was in Salem today conferring with Health Commissioner R. T. Holzthach, other department of health officials and the Red Cross on the acceptance of applications and qualifications of wives to participate.

The program provides care of the mother at the birth of the child, pre-natal and post-confinement care, and assures medical care for the infant until it is one year old.

POLITICS OF THEIR OWN CHOOSING

One sentence in the President's remarks about the quarterly lend-lease report will attract special attention. "The goal of the United Nations," Mr. Roosevelt says, "is to permit liberated peoples to create a free political life of their own choosing and to attain economic security."

This sounds like the official answer to complaints that this government is muzzling a chance to manipulate political destinies abroad. It goes even deeper than that: it sounds like the official explanation for policies which the would-be manipulators have objected to with all the bitter fury of their assorted political goals.

If the President means what he seems to mean, United States policy is not aimed at the encouragement of any particular regime's hope for supremacy in the years to come; that is to be left to the determination of the affected peoples. Meanwhile, the arrangements made from time to time, as in North Africa and after the fall of Mussolini, are not to be construed as long-range planning but as expedient measures for the furtherance of military, not political, aims.

This position is not acceptable to the would-be manipulators in the United States, or the United Nations. Declaring it at this time, however, amounts to a denial that this government holds a brief for any post-war political arrangement in the countries unsettled by the war. It hopes, of course, that they will veer toward republicanism, but it recognizes that both political and economic security must be worked out by the people, themselves—a principle that should prove more attractive to them than the opposing principle of trying to impose systems that may neither be wanted nor understood. At least, it should bring the issue into the open and dispel suspicion of American motives.

THE BOYS FROM MISSOURI

Emigration of United States fighting men, technicians and experts to the four corners of the earth soon will stand at an all-time high. They are seeing with their own eyes, many of them for the first time, how the other 92 percent of the world's population lives. Before the war is over, millions of them will have first-hand information on wartime living standards under every known form of government and reliable information on peacetime standards. They will have the "feeling" of existence in strange climates of all kinds—atmospheric, economic, political and social.

They know already in Sicily what that part of Italy has obtained from Mussolini's Fascism. They will find out about Communism and Hitler's authoritarian rule. They will form impressions of colonial administration in India, of Australian autonomy, of Irish independence. When they come home, they will constitute one of the best informed groups that ever wielded influence in the determination of national affairs. Whether from Missouri or one of the other 47 states, they will have found out for themselves what goes on in the rest of the world.

Judged by the letters they are writing home and the things they say when they return, the American standard of living is no longer a hollow phrase that crops out in orators' speeches. It is the embodiment of the absent Americans' dreams of home—the thing they are fighting to enjoy again. The "boys from Missouri" are being shown.

PENTHALONS ARE FOR ATHLETES

The long-distance argument between Industrialist Henry Ford and Communist Drew Pearson over which would be the better man in a penthalon sounds almost like old times when Americans grew goggle-eyed over the endurance of marathon dancers.

The fact is, as the columnist should admit without delay, that a man's ability to jump and run has nothing whatever to do with ability to run an industrial empire. At 80, Mr. Ford still is in the big time on that score. If his columnist challenger is doing as well in his field at 80, it won't be due to his ability to run and jump.

Incidentally, the list of penthalon and decathlon champions in Olympic games doesn't include any first-class industrialists, or columnists either. It's of no importance, except for the notion that bobs up every so often that unless a man can run, jump, turn handsprings and do nip-ups, his mental agility is slipping.

ALLIED SEA LOSSES

COVENTRY, England, Aug. 27.—Overall Allied sea losses during the initial invasion voyages and supplying of Allied armies in Sicily from July 10 to midnight, Aug. 17, totaled less than 85,000 tons, A. V. Alexander said today.

The first lord of the Admiralty disclosed that within 48 hours of the first landing, 80,000 men, 7,000 vehicles, 300 tanks and 700 guns had been put ashore.

Alexander said the British fleet units alone, in this war's most intensive naval support of landing operations, fired more than 20,000 shells with guns ranging from four to 15 inches.

Regarding the relatively light Allied losses at sea, he said:

"The Italian and German governments were either completely ignorant of the cost to us in shipping or so were so appalled by the truth that they made many inconsistent claims which culminated in the German announcement of Aug. 17, summarizing their claims as 112 merchant ships of 516,830 tons sunk."

Saying that the seaborne invasions of North Africa and Sicily were on a scale believed by many to be utterly impossible, he added, "literally we have moved tanks and aircraft in their thousands, mechanical vehicles in their hundreds of thousands and men in their millions."

Our memory goes back to the good old days when we used gasoline quite freely to remove oil spots from our clothing.

The headlines in one of our exchanges say: "Beef Shortage Ahead, Industry Warns." Any shorter than it has been for many months past?

I'm sure Hitler is saying "I wonder what those rascals (FDR and Churchill) are up to now. What new trouble is to descend?"—British Home Secretary Herbert Morrison.

Only by intelligent and effective post-war planning can we prevent a crime wave of major proportions.—Harvey S. Firestone, rubber manufacturer.

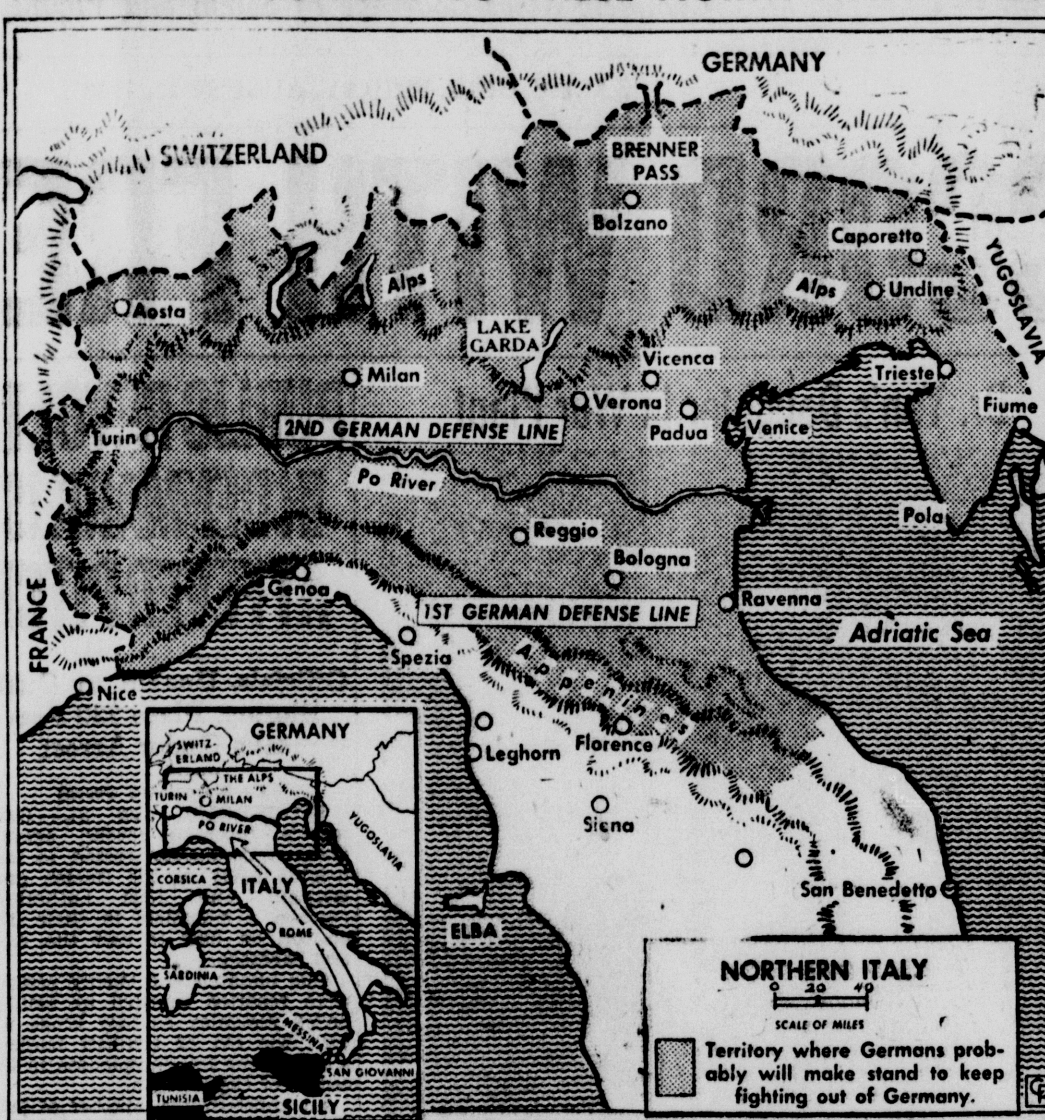

The Victory garden products recall an ancient saying: Eat all you can and can all you can't!

The headlines say: "446,000 Fathers Face 1943 Draft." What a mighty Army those fathers will make!

At the rate synthetic rubber is being produced everybody should be able to own a girdle by 1945.

It is comforting to learn that the OPA has made one definite decision. It has announced that cabbage seeds are used to grow cabbage.

NAZIS MAY RETREAT TO THESE NORTH ITALY LINES

RETREAT TO THE NORTH of Italy by German forces is regarded as a possibility following close of the battle for Sicily. Axis troops are reported blowing up military installations on the Italian mainland across from Messina. If the Germans do fall back to their defense lines in northern Italy they would be fighting a last-ditch battle to keep the Allies from entering Germany itself. (International)

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Pattern Followed In Human Growth

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
GROWTH, as we pointed out yesterday, is one of the most mysterious functions of the body. Obviously it is a necessary function. We cannot forever remain the size of babies, even if we mature in other ways, because the baby would have to reproduce a smaller baby and so on until in a few generations we would be microscopic. So Nature provides for growth up to the age of maturity. But why isn't the growth steady and gradual?

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The human animal grows very rapidly from birth to six months—increases size twice. Then it grows steadily but slowly for two years, so again its size is twice that of six months. Then its growth slows so as to be almost imperceptible—only a ten or fifteen per cent increase in eight or nine years.

The child of ten is about four times the size of the new born baby. Then all of a sudden at about the age of twelve growth is speeded up so that in the next five or six years the size of the individual is ten times that at birth. And then the whole darn thing stops dead and never starts again. Why? Nobody on earth has the faintest idea.

Averages of Height
If you want averages of growth in height, they can be furnished. But, if, as a parent, you are going to apply this to the growth of your own children a warning is necessary. These are only averages, and an average is made by computing ten thousand individuals. Your child is as likely to fall right on the dot as one is to ten thousand.

But here are the figures. Males and females are about the same up to thirteen years. It is more accurate to do it in millimeters. (A millimeter is one-thousandth of a meter, which is 39 1/3 inches long.)

At 3 months—613
1 year—761
2 years—874
3 years—962
4 years—1039 (a little over a yard)
5 years—1109
6 years—1172
7 years—1238
8 years—1301
9 years—1359
10 years—1413
11 years—1465
12 years—1510
13 years—1567 (a little over a yard and a half)

Several General Deviations
But in recording a large number, of which this is the average, there are found deviations from the average which fall into four groups. There is first a group whose weight is heavier than the average and height about the average or somewhat below. Then there is a taller group—always exceeding the average height, constituting about 33 per cent of the whole. This individual is slender and his weight not much more than the average.

Then there is the small type, consistently at every age under the average height, constituting about 27 per cent of the entire group. The actual average constitutes about 37

Questions and Answers

G. M. P.: If a person has osteomyelitis in her youth would it be likely to recur later on in life? Would her offspring be likely to be affected by it?

Answer: If the osteomyelitis has been thoroughly eradicated in youth, it will not recur. There is absolutely and positively no danger of giving it to the offspring.

SYNOPSIS

Drew Thorpe, young geologist for the States Oil Company in Venezuela, South America, and his friend, Spud Lowry, a drifter, were attacked by men from the rical Planet Export Corporation while exploring the Rio Bravo jungle for new oil fields. They managed to escape, with their mad that the region safely hidden in Drew's knapsack. Drew is uneasy when forced to accept medical aid for himself and his badly injured friend at the Planet's hospital on the edge of the jungle. His one ally in the enemy's camp is a beautiful nurse, Gloria Diaz, whose father, famed Dr. Hernandez Diaz, owns the hospital and openly anti-American, had recently contracted with the doctor to use his hospital for their men in the oil fields. Drew recognizes a formidable enemy in Franz Alter who, in addition to the Planet Corporation, controls newspapers and radio stations in his effort to gain the rich resources of South America for his country. Dr. Diaz assures Drew that Spud will be able to leave the hospital in a few days and invites him to dine with them. He meets Alter's attractive American wife, Nan, who explains that she and her husband reside at the hospital. Alter's laboratory is located there. Drew also meets Tonia, young intern and protégé of Dr. Diaz. Later, on the terrace, Alter warns Drew to keep out of the Rio Bravo territory. They are interrupted by an urgent cry from Spud and find him lying on the floor in his room — unconscious. Drew decides to remain with his friend although the doctor's examination proves he has not been seriously harmed.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Alone with his companion, Drew pulled up a chair and looked down into the haggard, unshaven face. The bandage obscured one eye but the breathing had become normal, and once again Spud sighed. Drew listened to the footsteps of the others receding down the corridor; then silently he went to the door, closed it, and returned to the bedside. Leaning very close, he whispered, "Spud!" He waited, then once again, "Spud!" A vague stirring beneath the sheets. Spud's unbandaged eye opened, rested for a time on Drew, and at last a ghost of a smile spread over his face. "Hi, old screwball," Drew could barely hear the weak greeting. "Listen, Spud," he spoke rapidly, "you're all right. You're in a hospital, and I've got to let you rest; but there's one thing to remember. It's the hospital of the Planet people, so watch your step." "The Planet?" Spud's one visible eye became perfectly round. "How did I get here?" "Piggy-back. And you were plenty heavy." "The Planet hospital?" Consternation raged in Spud's voice. "There was nowhere else to go. Now, one thing more. Is there anything in your pockets or your clothes?" "Clothes!" Lightning clear the word brought with it a sudden memory. Spud pulled himself upright. "That's what it was — just now! Somebody going through my clothes." He pointed toward the porch. And the porch told the story. The mesh of the screen had been ripped open, and on the ground beneath Drew could see a break in the hibiscus hedge. "He got away through the screen," Drew said down beside the bed. "Are you dead sure there was nothing in your clothes?" "Not a thing." "Then let them look. They'll go through my stuff tonight." Casually he added, "Franz Alter is here." "Alter!" Once more Spud's voice rose in alarm. "Take it easy—yes, he's here, under this roof." "That makes it tough." "Not so tough. Not if you keep remembering we were out hunting tigers." "That won't fool Alter—he's one wise hombre." "Wise! I used to think he was overrated, but not now. He knows as much about me as you do. It was a bad break to find him here, but this could be worse." Drew stretched. "Yesterday I wouldn't have given a tin peso for your chances, but now, with a few days' rest you'll be in grand shape." "Sure. All ready for another tiger hunt." The two men smiled—there was a depth of affection and complete understanding in that smile. "When do I get out of here?" Spud asked. "Diaz didn't say. I'll have to try to go down tomorrow. It's the last day to catch Hartwell before he takes the plane for New York. If I can convince him we've got something big on the Rio Bravo, we'll get action." Spud lowered his voice. "Is the map safe?" "So far." A knock, and the door opened. "It's my little nurse," Drew announced, "come to take me by-bye." At sight of Gloria, Spud's unbandaged eye brightened with frank approval. "Boy, you always were a good picker." "Pipe down," Drew warned. "She speaks English." In spite of herself the girl was smiling. "I speak it well enough to tell red-haired gentlemen that other patients need rest." She looked expectantly at Thorpe. Drew's hand closed over Spud's. "See you tomorrow, you old chemo." "Okay, boy. And I still think you're a swell picker." Together Gloria and Drew walked down the corridor to the long living room. Curtains had been drawn across the windows, and the armchair where he had first seen Nan

"Salud y pestas," she echoed, and they drank.

She reached out to lay down her glass, and again he caught the faint odor of perfume from her body. His eyes passed around the room. A pair of stockings lay on the floor; a dress was thrown over the back of a chair; magazines filled the opposite corner, and on a tray were a dozen cigarette butts, red with lipstick.

She followed his glance. "Yes, the room's a mess, isn't it? A cross section of my character, if I can lay claim to any such luxury."

Thorpe wondered. She seemed so brittle, inclined to be bitter. Well, being married to Franz Alter might account for any amount of bitterness. But he found himself asking if it might not be a mask to hide—what? Some hurt, some fear. If it were simply Alter, why did she put up with him? After all, she was young and attractive. Nan Alter's voice brought him back.

"What do you think of our Gloria?" "She's lovely, isn't she?" "Careful," Nan was shaking her head. "Every man in Venezuela between sixteen and sixty is or has been in love with her. Better not dream too much about Gloria—her father's pet hate is any young man who looks twice at her."

"Why?" "She shrugged. "Gloria's all he has. He won't let anyone else help him in his operating work. He leans on her like a child and watches her like a hawk. Whenever she's with a man he fumes until life's unbearable for everybody."

"I have a great affection for Gloria. She's intelligent, and she has courage; but her father can't remember that she's living in the twentieth century; he can't see that the old Spanish conventions are as out-of-date as a snuff box. He had been too much wrapped up in work to realize the world moves and that his little Gloria is grown up. Gloria wants life; she's ready for life, and she's going to have it—or explode."

Nan Alter smiled. "What she really needs is a sweetheart." "What about that intern?" "Tono? He doesn't count. He's a second cousin to begin with, and completely under Diaz's thumb. Tono amuses her, that's all. When Gloria really falls in love, her father is going to learn that not all life's problems are solved with pills and surgical knives. You know what a thoroughbred does when you try to drive with too tight a rein—it takes the bit in its teeth and there's a grand smash-up. I've seen signs of that smash-up coming between Gloria and her father. Why must women be eternally at war with some self-appointed master?"

He did not answer. His eyes were on the upturned face and the red lips that in repose appeared a like dolorous. Then his thoughts went back to Gloria standing by his bedside. "I'd like to see that girl with the bit in her teeth—she could do some high stepping."

Lack Of Proper Recreation Menace To War-Time Youth

By JEANETTE SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — "Kkaki-wacki" girls of teen age, bored with the boys of their own age, attracted by the glamor of the uniform, hanging out in juke joints, taverns and night clubs in the hope of picking up soldiers and sailors, constitute one of the most serious problems which war-time conditions have created.

These youngsters, many of whom have no place at home to entertain, with one parent or both working in defense plants, also have few wholesome places of recreation to which they can go, says Miss Ethel Bowers, field secretary of the National Recreation association.

"The number of teen age girls on the streets is alarming," she declares. "These girls are from twelve to seventeen years old. They travel in crowds and bandy wisecracks with civilians and soldiers alike on street corners."

"Heading for Trouble"

"They walk down city streets, six or seven abreast, breaking as they pass civilians but holding onto each other's arms as they approach a soldier or sailor, forming a very flattering net around him. As the walk progresses, the line gets shorter and shorter, as girl and boy pair off and leave the group. It's a childish, very effective get-your-man plan used by girls around 14 or 15 years old."

"The young girls also go stag to taverns and night clubs. They are discovered in hotels and picked up by the police. They run away from home. They are heading for trouble."

Juvenile delinquency is on the upswing, not only where the young girls are concerned, but also among boys of the same age, Miss Bowers asserted.

Boys Make Good Money

"The boys are working—many of them—and making more money than ever before in their lives," she explained. "Large numbers are newcomers in the boom towns, especially in the east and south, where villages that never had more than 700 people suddenly find themselves the center of an industry employing 10,000 to 15,000. These people live in trailers, shacks, tents, everywhere. In a farm near Birmingham, Ala., we found a chicken house had been cut into living quarters for four families—one family to each room."

"Under such conditions, with their parents often away at work until late in the evening, the boys run wild, like young hoodlums. They take advantage of their anonymity. After all, no one knows them by name. Back home, they'd think twice before doing anything bad, knowing Mrs. Smith was peering out at them from behind her lace curtains, and would gossip about them all over the neighborhood."

"Door key children"—the small ones—running wild while their mothers are at the factory, are another community problem, the recreation advisor added. So are the young women with husbands in the service, wanting to have fun, but unwilling to risk unpleasant gossip by going around with other men.

"What is the solution?" asked Miss Bowers. "Community and neighborhood recreation, in which all can take part, from toddlers of two to grandmothers—dances where 15-year-old Mary can dance with service men, while Mama and Papa look on, providing adequate chaperonage."

Some communities, through their city recreation departments, or spontaneous neighborhood projects, are attempting to furnish such entertainment, she revealed.

In Norfolk, Va., dancing is staged on the hard-surface tennis courts during the summer months, and roller-skating in spring and fall. The courts are brilliantly lighted with the city's Christmas tree bulbs of red, blue, green and white. The lights and the rhythmic music give "glamor and glitter," which the youngsters crave. There are bleachers where the older folk can sit at their ease, and look on.

Recreation Necessary

Sunday band concerts in the park, with special variety acts—dancing, juggling, singing—are the contribution of Providence, R. I., to its defense workers, service men, and their families, hungry for recreation. The people, 30,000 to 40,000 strong, bring their lunches and eat them, sprawled on the grass.

Several cities, including Lexington, Ky., and Cincinnati, have blocked off certain city streets for pavement games and dancing, Miss Bowers reported.

"Dancing and music have universal appeal," she explained. "They are relaxing. These people are

Untouchables' Leader Would Abolish India Caste System

By WALTER L. BRIGGS

United Press Correspondent

NEW DELHI, India—Dr. Bhimrao Ramji Ambedkar, the untouchables' champion who became the first of his group ever to serve on the Viceroy's executive council, thinks the Indian National Congress is putting first things second.

"Because of their emotional emphasis on independence from Britain, Congress leaders are paying no attention to the more important question of the kind of government they want to build thereafter," youthful-looking, 50-year-old American-educated Mr. Ambedkar told me.

"Congress has no ideals whatsoever for reconstruction," he said. "However, there are plenty of people outside Congress with intellectual capacities 100 times superior to congressmen who are thinking along these lines."

He said the 51,000,000 untouchables feared majority Hindu control in an independent India, just as did the Moslems.

"We have been so badly treated by the Hindus in the last 2,000 years that if under a new constitution we get no political safeguards we know the Hindus will make our position even worse. Gandhi says they may be trusted, but we don't believe it."

Social Outcasts
Untouchables are the lowest caste of India. They are allowed only the most menial jobs, forbidden education and entrance into Hindu temples, denied use of community wells.

Dr. Ambedkar knows the plight of his people from bitter personal experience. As one of the few untouchables able to push into elementary schools, he was forced to sit on a gunny sack in a classroom corner. He could not touch the school water tap. Later, as a successful Bombay lawyer, he was confined to a one-room tenement home, fined to a one-room tenement home.

I met affable, bespectacled Dr. Ambedkar in his spacious, high-ceilinged office in the Government of India's Secretariat, where he's watching the interests of his people and of all India's workers as Labor member of the Viceroy's executive council.

He reached his lofty position, unopposed by another untouchable in India's history, through years of diligence. His scholastic abilities so impressed the Kaekwar of Baroda that the prince sent him to Columbia university, where he earned a Ph. D. then to London and Germany. His success as a lawyer defending his people led him into politics and since 1926 he has battled Mahatma Gandhi and caste Hindus three times traveling to London for the Round Table conferences.

Gandhi For Caste

Dr. Ambedkar stands for abolition of caste; Gandhi for a better deal for untouchables within caste. "However, the wiping away of caste can't be done by us," he told me. "We are the victims of it."

He stands for dominion status rather than complete independence and believes that the Moslems are foolish in demanding Pakistan (divided India), but that Congress could not prevent them from effecting it.

The question of Pakistan is simple enough," he declared. "If 90,000,000 Moslems don't want a Congress constitution, it can't be forced on them."

As for American relations with India, Dr. Ambedkar said: "I can quite foresee the difficulty of the United States trying to force a solution of the Indian problem."

One of the major jobs now is preparation of a bill to be presented before the central legislature providing for compulsory recognition of unions, which he described as "the first step in India's history toward trade unionism."

Firewood Prices Set

LOS ANGELES—It isn't going to be so easy from now on to keep the home fire burning, especially in the fireplaces. The OPA has just set ceiling prices, both wholesale and retail, on firewood. Eucalyptus got a retail price ceiling of $28 a cord, and oak $28. Dealers may charge $1 a cord extra if they stack the wood for a purchaser.

tired. They word hard, for long hours. They don't want recreation that's too tiring, or that makes them think. Also, dancing creates a common bond—brings strangers together—makes newcomers in the community feel at home."

Miss Bowers urged that communities which have not already done so, make a concerted effort to provide city-wide or neighborhood recreations—to offset the loneliness and growing wildness of the nation's restless, war-jittery younger generation.

SALAMAUA RECEIVES 180 TONS OF BOMBS

Allied Bombers Rip Japanese Supply Base In New Guinea

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 27.—Allied heavy and medium bombers, flying in greater force than ever before in the Southwest Pacific, crashed 180 tons of bombs on Salamaua's supply base at Hansa bay, New Guinea, Thursday, Allied headquarters announced today.

Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney's Fifth airforce sent nearly 100 Liberators, Flying Fortresses and Mitchells, escorted by fighters, into the attack from low altitude and succeeded in sinking a freighter, wrecking 45 barges, exploding ammunition dumps and destroying ground installations.

While American and Australian ground forces, almost at the edge of Salamaua's airfield, tightened their pressure on the Japanese, the same blistering bomber formations, which devastated Wewak in consecutive raids last week, turned their attention to the Hansa bay area.

At the other arm of the Pacific offensive in the Solomons, the Japanese still clinging to a foothold on New Georgia island at Bairoko harbor above the captured Munda airfield began to wilt under continued pounding of artillery and advancing infantrymen. Most of the shoreline there now is in American hands.

Forty-five miles above Munda on Vella Lavella island, the Japanese attempted six raids Thursday against United States troop positions. They lost 11 planes to American fighters and one to anti-aircraft gunners.

Across the Kula gulf from Bairoko, the Japanese air base of Vila on Kolombangara was blasted yesterday by 34 tons of bombs in a raid by Americans.

Drivers of 5 Held Cars Face Hearing

LISBON, Aug. 27.—Five cars intercepted yesterday by Sheriff George Hayes remained impounded today while drivers of the vehicles, enroute from the east to western markets, have been ordered to appear before an Office of Price Administration hearing commissioner.

The cars were impounded on OPA instructions to stop illegal conveying of cars more than 200 miles from the place of sale, according to Hugo V. Prucha of Cleveland, attorney in charge of the district OPA fuel and transportation unit. He said that improper use of gasoline rations also was involved.

Three automobiles bought in Brooklyn, N. Y., were enroute to the Lincoln (Neb.) Sales Co. using 12 "C" ration coupons provided by the New York dealer, Prucha said. Additional coupons were to be waiting for the drivers at Canton, he reported.

Prucha said the United Motor Sales Co. of Holland, Mich., owner of the other two automobiles, purchased the cars in Passaic, N. J., and that one was being towed, although a Passaic ration board had granted gasoline for both cars.

Disease Losses In Chicken Flocks Too High, Official Says

(By Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—More care in the henhouse would put 200,000-000 dozen more eggs on America's breakfast tables and 100,000,000 additional pounds of chicken on Sunday dinner platters.

This would be possible if only 5 per cent of needless disease losses were prevented in adult poultry flocks, says Dr. Cliff D. Carpenter of the United States Department of Agriculture.

And not just 5 per cent, but a 50 per cent reduction in poultry losses could be accomplished by applying modern proved means of disease control to flocks, Dr. Carpenter told the war conference of the American Veterinary Medical association yesterday.

"The nation may fail to meet its 1943 production goals," he added gloomily, "unless vigorous steps are taken to meet this problem."

The rate of mortality after chicks leave the brooder house has doubled since 1920 in many areas, he reported, and poultrymen lose 35 to 40 per cent of their laying flocks from preventable causes.

Production, he emphasized, must be greater this year—with less available feed, less labor and perhaps less stock.

He recommended rearing birds on clean and adequate range, frequent culling of unprofitable birds, better utilization of natural sources of vitamins, and early care for diseased chickens.

Dr. George H. Hart of the University of California predicted in a prepared address that the farmer someday may be able to buy certain strains of livestock which are immune to specific diseases, just as he now buys certain strains of grain immune to smut and rust.

Texas Firm, Army Officer Indicted In Government Fraud

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The Justice department announced today that a federal grand jury here has indicted a Texas ammunition manufacturing company, its president and a court-martialed army officer on charges of bribery and conspiracy to defraud the government.

One indictment charges the American Manufacturing Co. of Texas, President William J. Gourley of Fort Worth, and August J. Cayouette, a former lieutenant colonel, with "unlawfully, wilfully and knowingly" conspiring to defraud the government in the purchase of machine tools.

A second indictment charges that between Aug. 15, 1941, and March 5, 1942, Gourley gave the officer six checks totalling $5,200 "with the intent to influence the decision and action of Cayouette in his official capacity" as a War department official assigned to recommend the amount and kind of tools for government purchase.

The announcement said Cayouette was convicted April 15, 1943, by a general court martial at Fort Meyer, Va., on charges of "conduct of a nature to bring discredit to the military service and of conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman."

Cayouette was dismissed from the service, the announcement added, fined $5,000 and sentenced to two years at hard labor.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The more I read about it, Judge, the more I realize the tactics and requirements of this war are as different from the one I fought in 25 years ago as night is from day."

"Yes, and I can give you an example of how true that is, Fred. In World War I the chief uses of alcohol produced for war purposes were found in smokeless powder, medicinal supplies and chemical warfare materials. In this war the need for this product is far more vital because it is also used as a fuel to propel torpedoes, to make shatterproof glass for airplane windshields and instrument covers, to make lacquers used in camouflaging equipment and as a base for synthetic rubber needed for tires, gas masks, paratrooper equipment and dozens of other things.

"Every time I think of it, Fred, I realize how fortunate we were in having a beverage distilling industry in existence when war broke out...ready and willing to convert 100% to the production of this critically needed war product. I'm mighty sure bootleggers wouldn't have."

Crack U. S. Army Officers Training Troops In China

By JOHN W. JARRELL
International News Service Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN CHINA — Chinese soldiers are being trained in the latest infantry and artillery tactics by veteran American officers at this time, it can be revealed today.

In this most novel military college in the world, crack instructors with the aid of interpreters are giving the Chinese as tough and concentrated a course of training as any fighting army in the world ever received.

They are learning how to handle every sort of gun and are being taught tactics the hard way — on the field in every sort of weather, including the terrific storms of the monsoon. They are studying radio communication, are receiving belated training in handling loading and unloading for the pack animals and are learning the fundamentals of jungle warfare.

Students Arrive Daily

Already the first graduates, both in infantry and artillery, are en route back to the front where they will spread the knowledge they have gleaned among other Chinese troops. Daily more students arrive to begin their course of instruction — six weeks for infantrymen, eight weeks for artillery men and all of it gruelling work.

The school is similar in some respects to that operated by other American army officers in eastern India.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek bears the title of superintendent of the school. Colonel Frank Dorn, who walked out of Burma with Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell commands the area.

As senior instructors of the two schools, two veteran American officers were chosen. Brig. Gen. Jerome Jackson Waters, Jr., longtime artilleryman with an army career of more than 26 years, heads the artillery center. General Waters — "stopwatch" Waters to his men because of his habit of carrying one stopwatch in his wrist pocket and another on his wrist and timing all battery operations — was born in Eagle Pass, Texas. His wife, who is a volunteer ambulance driver, lives at St. Louis st., Springfield, Mo.

Waters served two years in Hawaii and during the first World War commanded the same battery in France throughout the fighting. He was wounded, received the Purple Heart, the Croix de Guerre and two silver stars.

Language A Problem

Brig. General Thomas S. Arms, 50 years of age and 27 years in the army, heads the infantry training center. The two centers are situated some miles apart. General Arms' home is in Cleveland, O., though his wife is in Carmel, Calif., for the duration. Towing General Arms — he is six feet, two inches tall — served with the U. S. forces in Sicily during the last war.

In the infantry section virtually all the students are officers from the rank of colonel down to lieutenant. In the artillery school there are also cadres for non-commissioned officers as well as commissioned officers.

The Americans have been forced to tackle this job with typical American ingenuity. They have a terrific linguistic problem. The supply problem is acute as it could only be in a country where the sole supply route is by airplane. The Chinese equipment is in bad condition. General Waters found some of the Chinese artillery could not be fired without blowing up. One of the big guns still was full of shrapnel holes. Some of the pack animals were underfed and diseased, so much so that Waters placed them in a veterinary hospital in order that they might get proper food.

Get Modern Weapons

The weapons which the Chinese artillery students brought with them into camp would have formed a valuable collector's item. The weapons ranged from modern to historic. One officer carefully trained Chinese gunners with American equipment of the most modern type.

The artillery school will be able to keep many men busy from this time forward. New classes come in each week new students enroll and begin their concentrated and difficult course.

Among the American officers are some Chinese Americans but unfortunately most of them speak only Cantonese and have to use interpreters the same as the American officers. At both centers, however, the Americans are studying Chinese and each artillery officer for example can bark out all the necessary commands in fluent Mandarin the national dialect.

The only instructor who does not use an interpreter at all is colorful Colonel David D. Barrett, 12 years in China — six of them in Peiping and Chungking, first as assistant military attaché, then as military attaché to the embassy. Colonel Barrett, originally from Boulder, Colo., says his residence is "wherever I hang my hat." He instructs in infantry tactics.

Become Jungle Experts

Chinese infantrymen learn about jungle fighting from Colonel Walter Wood, born in Chicago, whose wife lives in Elizabeth, N. J. He served two terms with the Philippine Scouts and also in Panama. Colonel Wood's premise is that jungle fighting is not anything new to Americans — that in theory it is much the same as Americans faced from the Pequot Indians when they landed in the New World and much the same as that which odgers' rangers and Morgan's rangers coped.

In General Waters' artillery center instruction is carried out on two broad lines: one — tactics, communication and material and two — gunnery and animal transport.

The Chinese soldiers and officers are adaptable pupils. They can shoot well; they learn fast. They learn radio operating tasks as a matter of fact — perhaps due to their tentative powers.

They are getting precisely the same sort of training that the American

Light Craft Loss Seen To Hamper Italian Navy

CAIRO—A release from the British embassy concludes, after analyzing the present strength of the Italian navy, that losses, particularly in light forces, have thrown it seriously out of balance.

Pointing out that light forces are essential as a screen for heavy units, the release states that, compared with 1940, the strength of the Italian navy has increased 16 per cent in battleships but decreased 83 per cent in heavy cruisers, 50 per cent in light cruisers and 54 to 61 per cent in destroyers.

A note adds that, although Italy has no aircraft-carriers, it is believed that she is converting certain other vessels.

Mutton and Lamb Quotas To Rise In September

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The War Food administration announced today September meat quotas calling for more mutton and lamb, but less pork for civilian tables.

The quotas for beef and veal will remain approximately the same as those for August.

WFA said classes 1 and 2-A slaughterers would be permitted to add 3 per cent of their quarterly quotas to their civilian mutton and lamb deliveries during the month.

Since a quarterly (July-September) quota is 80 per cent of civilian deliveries in the corresponding period of 1941, the three per cent increase over the base period will bring September deliveries to about 90 per cent of September, 1941, slaughterings.

Income Adjustment For 'White Collar' Workers, Is Cited

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. — Rep. George Bender, Cleveland Republican, said today something should be done to balance white-collar workers' salaries and living costs.

ing plants receive higher wages, non-manufacturing workers are struggling along on peacetime pay, or leaving their jobs, Bender said, suggesting the development would change the political outlook of millions.

"Figures released by the Office of Price Administration," his statement added, "show that the weekly wages of workers in manufacturing plants rose by 28.9 per cent of the period between Jan. 1, 1941, and March 1, 1943, after making allowances for the increased cost of living.

"But real wages of non-manufacturing workers, including clerical help, declined 2.9 per cent during the same period.

"White collar employees, whose living costs have risen sharply in the period since Pearl Harbor, find themselves faced with high taxes and dwindling incomes at the same time.

"By leaving their positions, they have abandoned their status as members of a great independent-minded, non-partisan group. If their departure is to be permanent, the nation as a whole will have lost an important ingredient of effective public opinion. This new situation poses a question which the executive agencies of our government can not long ignore."

Illegal Payment By County Is Charged

LISBON, Aug. 27.—County commissioners have paid the board of directors of the Columbiana County Agricultural society $1,250 illegally, according to a statement filed with the commissioners by State Examiner John Whitney, who has completed an examination of all county office records.

Whitney reports that the commissioners paid the society $750 last March and $500 last October without receiving a certificate from the state director of agriculture, as required under a state law.

Commissioners have been informed that no funds are to be given the society this year unless a certificate is received from the state agricultural department.

Attention has also been called by Whitney to the payment by the commissioners of $544,405 for the feeding of prisoners confined in the Lisbon jail during the last two years. Whitney holds that the date and hour of confinement and release of prisoner shall be made a matter of record before such board bills are paid.

While it has been held by Whitney that the payments were illegal, there was no finding in the report filed with the commissioners.

GEN. DE WITT WARNS JAPS MORTAL FOE

Western Defense Commander Declares "We Must Tear Japan Apart"

(By Associated Press)

AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN BASE, Aug. 27.—Lt. Gen. John L. DeWitt, back from an inspection trip to Attu island—the westernmost point of his command—is determined that "we must carry the war to the Japanese; we must wage in and tear Japan apart, and dynamite and gut her with incendiaries."

Japan must be hit with the full offensive fury of the United Nations—and quickly, the chief of the Army's Western Defense command emphasized.

"Our future—yours, mine and every other American's—is first upon the Pacific," he declared in an interview. "Japan is our mortal foe."

Bold and determined fighting, General DeWitt said, won for Japan most of her early war objectives.

"Since then," he continued, "she has had a year to pour concrete into her gun positions, which cover all the beach landings. She is today training armies from overruled peoples. She is pillaging the richest empire in the world to make guns and bullets to fight us."

"Today we have only Japan to fight. If we wait for Japan to organize the countries she has overruled we will be fighting the most heavily manpowered nation in the world."

"Alaska is the base from which to launch an offensive. Today we have a chain of bases extending from San Francisco to Attu to carry out Tokyo's ultimate destruction."

At the same time, DeWitt contended, the Philippines should be recaptured to cut asunder the Japanese supply lines while aid is speeded up to China.

the Nazis. At this time it was known that Sweden's armed forces were ready for eventualities. By mid-July observers stated that the Scandinavian country was at the peak of military preparedness and it was said she could mobilize at least 600,000 well trained men, simultaneously the press was conducting a campaign against the continued transportation of German troops to and from Norway across Sweden.

Very recently the repressive measures of quelling in Norway have stirred a bitter reaction in Sweden. In Stockholm there have been Nazi demonstrations. The Swedish government revoked the privilege of transporting Nazi troops across the country.

That brings us up to the sinking of the little fishing boats. Swedish-German relations are doing a tight-rope act over Niagara.

American Civilians To Get 75 Percent Of Food Supplies

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt today advised American civilians that they have been allocated 75 percent of the nation's food production for the current fiscal year.

In a quarterly lend-lease report to Congress, the President traced current "domestic food shortages" to increased consumption by the armed forces and civilians and said they were not due to any appreciable extent to Lend-Lease shipments abroad.

Detailing lend-lease food needs which in the case of Russia have necessitated leaving munitions at the dock to cram eatables into ships, the President added:

"While these allocations (made by the War Food Administration) mean that civilians will receive less in the current year than they had in 1942-43 they will on the average get as much food as was available annually in the years 1935-39."

Proportions Shown
He explained that on an average, WFA has apportioned the American food production as follows: 75 percent to civilians at home, 13 percent to the armed forces, 10 percent to lend-lease, two percent to U. S. territories and special purposes.

The report said that lend lease food exports amounted to only 6 percent of the nation's total food supply in 1942 and that this year "it is likely that we will ship approximately 10 per cent."

"The domestic food situation," the report added, must be viewed in the light of present conditions. Members of our armed forces are eating more than they did as civilians. While the average American civilian eats about three and half pounds a day, the average man in uniform eats about five and one quarter pounds. The resulting increased consumption is equivalent to adding four to five million persons to our population.

"Many Americans who are not in uniform are also eating more than they have ever eaten before. This increased consumption by many civilians is due in part to increased consumer income. It is also due to the diversion of purchasing power to food from other articles that can no longer be purchased."

75 Per Cent for Civilians
The report said the War Food Administration had tentatively allocated food production for the year ending June 30, 1944 in the following manner:

To the civilian population, 75 percent; armed forces, 13 percent; Lend-Lease, 10 per cent, and United States territories and special needs, two percent.

While these allocations mean that civilians will receive less than they had in 1942-43, they will on the average get as much food as was available annually in the years 1935-39.

The report showed that the United States sent to its Allies in the year ended June 30, 17 out of every 100 bombers produced; 25 out of every 100 fighter planes; 22 out of every 100 light tanks, and 36 out of 100 medium tanks.

German Health Standard, Birth Rate Show Decline

BY LOWELL BENNETT

International News Correspondent

LONDON—Striking, detailed evidence was revealed here today of the greatly lowered health standard in Germany and of the inadequacy of civilian medical services to cope with a mounting disease-toll throughout the country.

Records have been received in Britain of health conditions in all major German cities. A comparison of them to British standards confirms recent reports from Switzerland that sickness-casualties are becoming an important factor in weakening German production.

These records, official ones from towns and cities whose population totals a third of the entire German people, are being carefully studied by medical authorities here.

Birth Rate Decline

They disclose that in 1942 there were increases in infantile mortality, in the suicide rate, and in the number of deaths from tuberculosis, diphtheria and scarlet fever. They reveal also a sharp decline in the birth rate.

"If the figures... applied to Great Britain we would have every reason to view the situation with great alarm," a high medical authority stated in reviewing the records.

Infant mortality in large German towns and cities rose by 17 per cent in the last quarter of 1942—to 66 per 1,000 live births. In the same period British figures dropped from 59 to 49 per thousand.

Germany, in 1942, had nearly 5,500 more deaths from tuberculosis than in 1939. In Britain, 1942's figure dropped by 2,500 reaching an all-time low.

Ailing Workers Used

Mass radiology, now being applied to war-workers here, to eliminate infectious cases from contact in large factories or offices, is not in operation in Germany.

"Germany, is using known tuberculosis cases in factories and offices to fill man-power deficiencies," a medical authority stated.

The figures show that the average civilian doctor in Germany is serving 5,000 people; here, the average practitioner handles about a thousand people.

Suicide rate in the areas covered by the statistics has risen from 6,387 in 1939 to 7,647 during 1942. In Britain the rate has dropped sharply since the beginning of hostilities.

14 Billion Lend-Lease Total Shown In President's Report

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—President Roosevelt asserted Wednesday that except for the responsible Axis leaders "the people of the Axis need not fear unconditional surrender to the United Nations."

In a report placing total lend-lease aid at nearly $14,000,000,000 the President again promised the feeding of the people of liberated areas and declared the Allies "are striking hard and ready to strike harder" to attain complete victory.

"The people of Axis-controlled areas may be assured," he said, "that when they agree to unconditional surrender they will not be trading Axis despotism for ruin under the United Nations."

"The goal of the United Nations," he said, "is to permit liberated peoples to create a free political life of their own choosing and to attain economic security. These are two of the great objectives of the Atlantic charter."

The lend-lease report, for the quarter ending July 31, showed that lend-lease aid to Russia through June 30 totaled $2,444,000,000 and July shipments to that country were at a "high level." The August volume "is expected to be the highest for any month since the program began" as far as Russia is concerned, the report added.

It said that the United States has sent more lend-lease planes to Russia than to any other country and that 57 per cent of all goods sent there have been munitions such as airplanes, tanks, and guns.
